Decorate at Calvary.

This morning about 9 o'clock, a delegation of the G. A. R. and W. R. C. left the court house with flowers to bedeck the graves of some eighteen departed union defenders that repose beneath the shade in the peaceful solitude of Calvary cemetery. There were among those volunteers, some who for the past thirty years have cherished that office as their own right and of these were Comrade T. R. The service was opened by Commanger J. Trisler who introduced Rev. S. I. Elder, pastor of the Davis Street Christian church. A short prayer by Mr. S. I. Elder preceeded the address of Major Hamilton. At the close of the address by the well known veteran whose more than four score years does not seem to impair his vitality, a delegation of Cloutman post with the Fifty-fourth regiment band arrived. Just previous to the arrival of the north side post, the speaker of the day, Hon. Ellsworth Rominger began his address which met with a hearty response by the veterans and others present.

Cost of War Was Great. The speaker carried his hearers back to the days of the civil war and survivors become more and more related incidents with which many feeble the burden of the celebration were familiar, some of which had local application. The speaker alluded to the passing of the feeling of bitterness that followed close after the war and related an incident that occurred in his own county of Davis when the Grand Army there met and escorted the remains of a dead member of Confederate Marma. duke's command from the train to the grave and spread the stars and bars of the confederacy over the casket only to be followed by the confederate post commander spreading a silk emblem of the stars and stripes above all as the body was lowered into the grave.

The American Liberty.
The speaker dwelt on the awfulness of the great strife and reviewing the master minds of Webster, Jefferson, Hamilton and Henry, asked why these men whose power to move the people was tremendous could not have stayed the terrible war that was to prove the worst of all civil strife ever carried on. He answered his own query by placed his foot with Columbus when the the latter landed on Canary Islands, and that this was the concepcommemorated for the sacrifices willingly made that their land might live

President Taft, of course, is not doing anything to help Judge Green, and the democrats intimate that the president is really helping their candidate.

While it is not believed that the while it is not believed that the president is offering any aid to or encouragement to the enemy, it does not seem likely that he will shed any tears over the defens of a candidate—even a republican—who is out on an enemy that is causing most of the trouble just even a republicar-who is out on an open anti-administration platform.

For the democrats are doing all they can to help in the fight. If it were not that congress is busily at work, Speak-er Champ Clark and some of the other orators of the democratic congress would now be chasing each other over the ninth district trying to elect Cleveland. They have already sent out a ton or so of literature and personal appeals, and their Iowa orators are busy at work.

Despite the apparent republican majority in the district Judge Green, has jority in the district. Judge Green has several handicaps. First, of course, is his opposition to President Taft and Taft's reciprocity plan. This is hurting him in Council Bluffs, the metropolis of the district, and probably will cos him that important stronghold. Then despite his anti-reciprocity views, Green has little support among the stalwarts of the district. They see a and many of them-according to re-ports received here-are willing to let Cleveland win.

Corn Planting is Factor. Possibly more important than either of this is corn planting time in Iowa. And the ninth district is one of the biggest corn districts of the country. Corn planting is something that you can't do just whenever you happen to think of it. And unless a farmer mightily aroused over a political situation he is not going to take any chances at missing a day from work in this season. The result may mean a ight vote in the rural districts. advantage of all these things, and, above all, he has the moral value of last fall's democratic landslide and the existence of a democratic majority in the house of representatives to help him win. Against any candidate except Judge Smith last fall Cleveland's election would have been mighty certain. Not only was Judge Smith personally popular in the district, but he of this store is staked on every Diaspeaker had the house been repub-lican. All these thing gave the district pride in assuring his return to con
